Cybersecurity information

The Econocom Group announces a cybersecurity alert with no significant impact at this stage. Serious investigation and containment measures are nevertheless ongoing.

This weekend, a group of attackers published a message indicating that they had hacked Econocom data.

Econocom Group Security and Security Operations Center teams immediately mobilized and are investigating the attack.

Current investigations show that the compromise is limited to a shared folder. No leak of sensitive information has been identified to date.

Econocom is doing its utmost to limit the scope of the issue, contain the data leak and limit the impacts.

A further update will be made by the end of the week and communicated transparently to the Group's stakeholders.
